CLASS ODE.

I.

The hours we've spent within these halls
Once more our souls impel,
To hymn to-day a parting song,
As now we bid farewell;
We've labored long together here
With hopes and ardor high,
But now we mourn to feel at last
That we must say good-bye.

II.

The morning bell has tolled aloud
Through snow and rain and sun;
We've gathered here with joyful hearts
And pleasant tasks have done.
We've longed for this glad day to come,
As months and years went by,
But now we mourn to feel at last
That we must say good-bye.

III.

We go, but to us evermore
Fond mem'ry's chain shall bind
The loved ones who have gone before,
And those we leave behind;
We go to run the course of life,
And in its contest vie,
But now we mourn to feel at last
That we must say good-bye.
